About Liverpool

Located in northwest England, Liverpool is a maritime city on the northwest coast of England. A key trade and migration port from the 18th to the early 20th centuries, it's also, famously, the hometown of The Beatles. With the most galleries in the UK outside of London, it was a European Capital of Culture in 2008, and in 2018 is holding a year-long programme of cultural, musical and sporting events to mark the decade and the city's transformation since – and to look to the future. Liverpool is 2 and a half hours by train or a 1 hour 15 minute flight to London and Liverpool airport services local and regional flights to Europe.
